 GrandPrixPlouay

A very experienced team

15th in the world ranking of Women's WorldTour, the US team will have a much higher value than its ranking at the start of the Grand Prix Plouay - Lorient Agglomération - Trophy WNT Women. The international collective will have three riders capable of playing the leading roles.

In Europe, the Tibco - Silicon Valley Bank is probably not the best known team of the Women's WorldTour, and yet this american team deserves to be recognized. The collective engaged in Plouay will be one of the strongest with three women can aim for the Top 10. A podium or a victory are not inaccessible ...

Since 2008, the Tibco - Silicon Valley Bank team has traveled the world competing for the most beautiful races in the women's calendar. This will be the eighth time this team will race the Grand Prix of Plouay - Lorient Agglomération - Trophy WNT Women. The provisional record of this team is interesting since it has already achieved five Top 10. In its workforce for the 2019 edition, it will present three women capable of such performances: Brodie Chapman, Lauren Stephens and Alison Jackson. In addition, all six women engaged by Tibco - Silicon Valley Bank have already run in Plouay. All finished the race ...

All these elements together show that we are dealing here with one of the strongest teams at the start of the 18th edition of the Grand Prix of Plouay Women.

Chapman, Stephens et Jackson as leaders

Team Tibco - Silicon Valley Bank has presented its first rider list scheduled in Plouay under the direction of Rachel Heal.

131. Brodie Chapman (Aus, 28). The Australian, 9th of the Flèche Wallonne, will be one of the leaders of the team in Plouay. Winner of five UCI races in 2019, she is used to competing with the world elite.

132. Lauren Stephens (Usa, 32). 7th in Plouay in 2017, the American will be one of three girls on her team expected to play the leading roles in a race she has already played three times.

133. Alison Jackson (Can, 30). 6th in the Grand Prix of Plouay in 2018 after a 16th place in 2017, the Canadian has quickly become a reference on the breton race. She knows she can win this race.

134. Rozanne Slik (Ned, 28). 15th in 2016, the Dutchman also has references on the breton race that she should approach as a teammate.

135. Leah Dixon (Gbr, 28). Having become professional only ten days ago, the Briton will live in Plouay her second race in the WorldTour.

136. Shannon Malseed (Aus, 24). Also already two experiences in Plouay for the young Australian who will want to continue to progress by supporting the leaders of his team.

The announced substitutes are Nina Kessler (Ned), Alice Cobb (Gbr) and Sharlotte Lucas (Nzl).
